My dear Mr. Lummis:

More than a year ago I sent you a check for $1.50 in payment for a copy of your book "Flowers of our Lost Romance." The book has never reached me and I wonder whether it has not yet been published or whether a copy was sent and lost in the mail. Please let me hear from you and if possible, please send me the book.

Yours very truly,

My dear Mr. James:

My records show that I received from you check for $1.50 for a Song Book March 17, 1924; and that I mailed a copy, autographed, March 18th.

I am sorry that it didn't reach you, and am sending you another copy under separate cover, which I trust will come safely to your hands. Please advise me if it does.

Yours very truly,
